Americans Are

One of the highlights of the senior year is when the ballots are passed out to the seniors for them to vote for their favorite "this and that." The results of their choice are shown on these two pages.

Jerry Miller was voted by his classmates as the boy most likely to succeed . . . The boy with the most sparkling personality is Ed Bransilver . . . Of the boys, "Seep" Senseny has the most popular nickname, while "Coke" Colicho has the cutest nickname among the girls . . . Alvin Haley won the honor of doing the most for the school.

Top to bottom, right column:

The girl most likely to succeed is Adoria Waters, say the seniors . . . Charming Marion Stults is thought to be the girl with the best personality . . . Mary Zern was voted the cutest girl and Stan Steinkamp the handsomest boy . . . Of the boys, the best athlete is judged to be he-man Dick Paul, while Kate Vonderau is the best girl athlete.

Circle:

Mary Lou Vetter and Bob Haberstroh were chosen the cutest couple by their classmates.

Senior Students

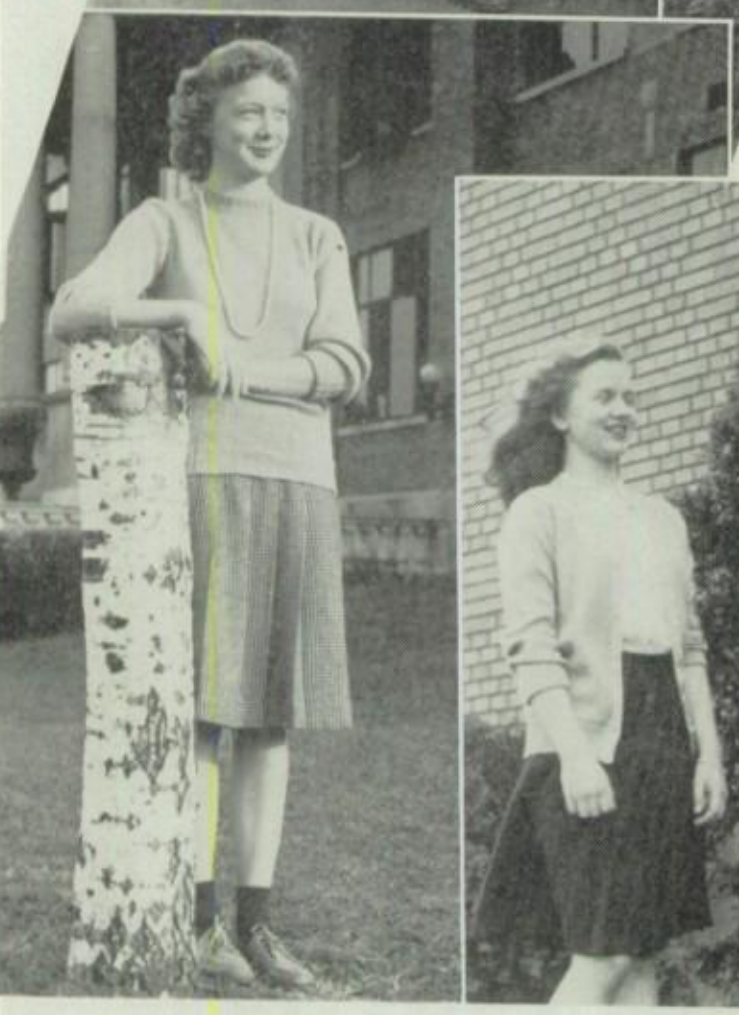
Among the girls, Doris Muntzinger has done the most for the school, according to the consensus of senior opinion... Voted the best girl orator was Carolyn Druhot ..The best boy musician is Carol Johnson ..The class clown is comical Bob Snowball, or so his classmates think.

Top to bottom, right column:

Steve Klingler is considered the most perfect gentleman and Margery Miller the most perfect lady ..The best boy public speaker is Phil Traycoff ...The senior class chose Phyllis Stroup as the outstanding girl musician ..Eric Baade is the class bookworm in the eyes of the senior voters.

Circle:

The best dancers of their class are Thelma Epstein and Ronnie Altevogt, according to the senior poll.



These juniors climbed to the top of their class poll. Tow row, left to right: None other than the chronic clown of the class, Bill Mariott . There's no mistaking that solid drummer, Fred White, as the best boy musician . . Mary Lou Singer took honors as best girl speaker . Don Bitsberger took honors in several fields but was overwhelmingly voted the boy most likely to succeed. Bottom row, left to right: High in everyone's estimation is Elizabeth Mossman, the girl most likely to succeed . One glance proves Eleanor Dickmeyer deserving of her title of cutest girl and Bob Haller, the class bookworm, seems to be getting an eyeful . Marjorie Haberkorn and Leon Waldman are enjoying their awards as best girl and boy dancers, respectively.

Looking counter-clockwise: Grinning sheepishly is the cutest junior couple, Kenton Gidley and Ann Keenan. . Ida Saunders and Wick Disler are by far the best athletes. . Laura Ann McCurdy is well-deserving of her choice as girl with the best personality. . . Popular Gil Rehm is the boy with the best personality. . . Phyllis Holzworth was chosen the best girl musician. . . . Cute Tusie Pohlmeyer has the cutest nickname. . . Jacky Sterner, one of the most ambitious juniors, has done the most for the school. . Dick Dannecker came out on top as the boy who has done the most for the school. . Handsome Tom Selector is the perfect gentleman and charming Jo Piatt is undoubtedly the perfect lady.

Soph Poll

Column one

The sophomore class with good judgment chose outstanding students in their poll. It is small wonder why such ambitious students as Bob Johnson, "chosen the most perfect gentleman" and Evelyn Will "the girl who has done most for her school", were both chosen "the most likely to succeed". Jim Solomon and Marilyn McCrudden rate tops in their ability of being "the best girl and boy speakers". Marilyn also received the honor of being "the most perfect lady"... Jean Degler excells in the art of dancing which results in her being "the best girl dancer"... You'd get a big kick out of Bob Richards, a practical joker, who makes the ideal "class clown"... "Fig" Newton is quite a cookie for the sophomore class and well deserves the title of "the most popular nickname". "The most popular girl nickname" belongs to "Mickey" McDaniels.

Column two

Robert Gettel is "the class bookworm" while Dale Geiger has well earned the rating "done most for the school"... Tom Zieg and Georgia Dreisbach have the coveted honor of being chosen "the best personalities". Tom Zieg was also selected "the best boy dancer". Bob Rodey and Joan Kline, both members of the band, are "the best musicians" of the sophomore class... Sophomores chose Virginia Bauman as "the cutest girl" and Jane Rump, who never runs out of that vim and vigor stuff, as "the best girl athlete."

Circle

It didn't take long for the sophomore class to choose Mary Warner and Bud Greiner as the "cutest couple." Bud also rates as "the handsomest boy" and "the best boy athlete."

Freshman Poll

Top to bottom, left column: Bob Mossman wins top honors in the freshman class as the most likely to succeed among the boys as does Sue Brudi among the girls . . . Ah, Gordon Stauffer is the most handsome of the freshmen while petite Sharon Thomas is the most perfect lady, and polite Dick Gensheimer is the most perfect gentleman . . . Music hath charms as best musician Doris Maxfield proves. Personality plus is the proper label for Jim Ketchem and Carol Waterman . . . Trip the light fantastic with either Jayne Ade or Bill Kemph, the best dancers of their class.

Top to bottom, right column: Industrious Tom Compton and Joyce Lakey have done the most for the school while Ted Thieme is the most studious . . . . "Casey" Keith Clauser and "Pearl" Joan Paul have the most popular nicknames among the freshmen . . . Smiling Bill Wilks and Marcia Mast mount the soap-box as best orators while the smooth mellow tones of Hal Kern's sax and trumpet win him honors as best boy musician . . . The outstanding athletes of the class are none other than Phyllis Miller and Don Geise.

Miss Hazel Miller explains the course of study to the parents of her history students at the annual PTA open house. Between eight and nine hundred mothers and fathers attended.

Mr. Joseph Plasket explains the fundamentals of the rifle to the members of the Boys' Rifle Club. Dick Brehm, Wayne Compton, and Willard Wilson (center) are three outstanding members of the club.

Representatives of all the city high schools meet to cooperate with the Safe Driver's League campaign to stimulate safe driving among high school students. Here with James White, chairman of the Lion's Club Safety Committee, sponsor of this drive, is South Side's representative, Barbara Hyman, the fifth from the left.

Bob Haller receives the Quiz Kid Award from Mr. Snider at Recognition Day ceremonies for being chosen from city-wide competition to participate on the Quiz Kid radio program when it appeared here in Fort Wayne to sell war bonds. Dale Geiger looks on.

A group of So-Si-Y members drawing and cutting Christmas decorations for the Red Cross. These decorations will be sent overseas to decorate some Red Cross canteen where they will help cheer up our boys and bring a touch of home to them.

Teas

A view of last year's Recognition Day services at which many students were recognized for speech, athletics, drama, math, English, and publications.

Miss Mabel Thorne and her home room students serve tea to the faculty to celebrate the growing ivy and the beautification of the bicycle court outside their home room. Here are a group of the guests and the girls who served. Left to right: Miss Gertrude Oppelt, Mrs. Linna Chronister, Miss Emma Shoup, Rosemary Walden, Mary Jo Stoffer, Miss Thorne, Bernice Shipley, Barbara Speigel, and Elaine Woodruff.

Another picture of an outstanding school event: last year's Ivy Day procession led by Mary Louise McNabb and her attendants, Janet Rea, Lois Guysinger, Sally O'Rourke, and Joyce Stump.

Four of last year's graduating seniors seem to be enjoying themselves as they look over their Totems, which despite wartime conditions came out well ahead of the close of school.

Dances

A large crowd of Archers attended the first after-game dance of the football season. This is Philo's annual "Touchdown Twirl", one of the biggest and best of all school-sponsored dances.

These men brought us the safety assembly, sponsored by the Fort Wayne Fire Department, in which they stressed the loss of lives and property by fire. Smoky Rogers of Chicago (second from left) was the main speaker.

In a beautiful candlelight service a large group of new Girl Reserves are initiated into USA. This scene followed devotional services. The officers of the club are kneeling in front and the initiates are standing in the back.

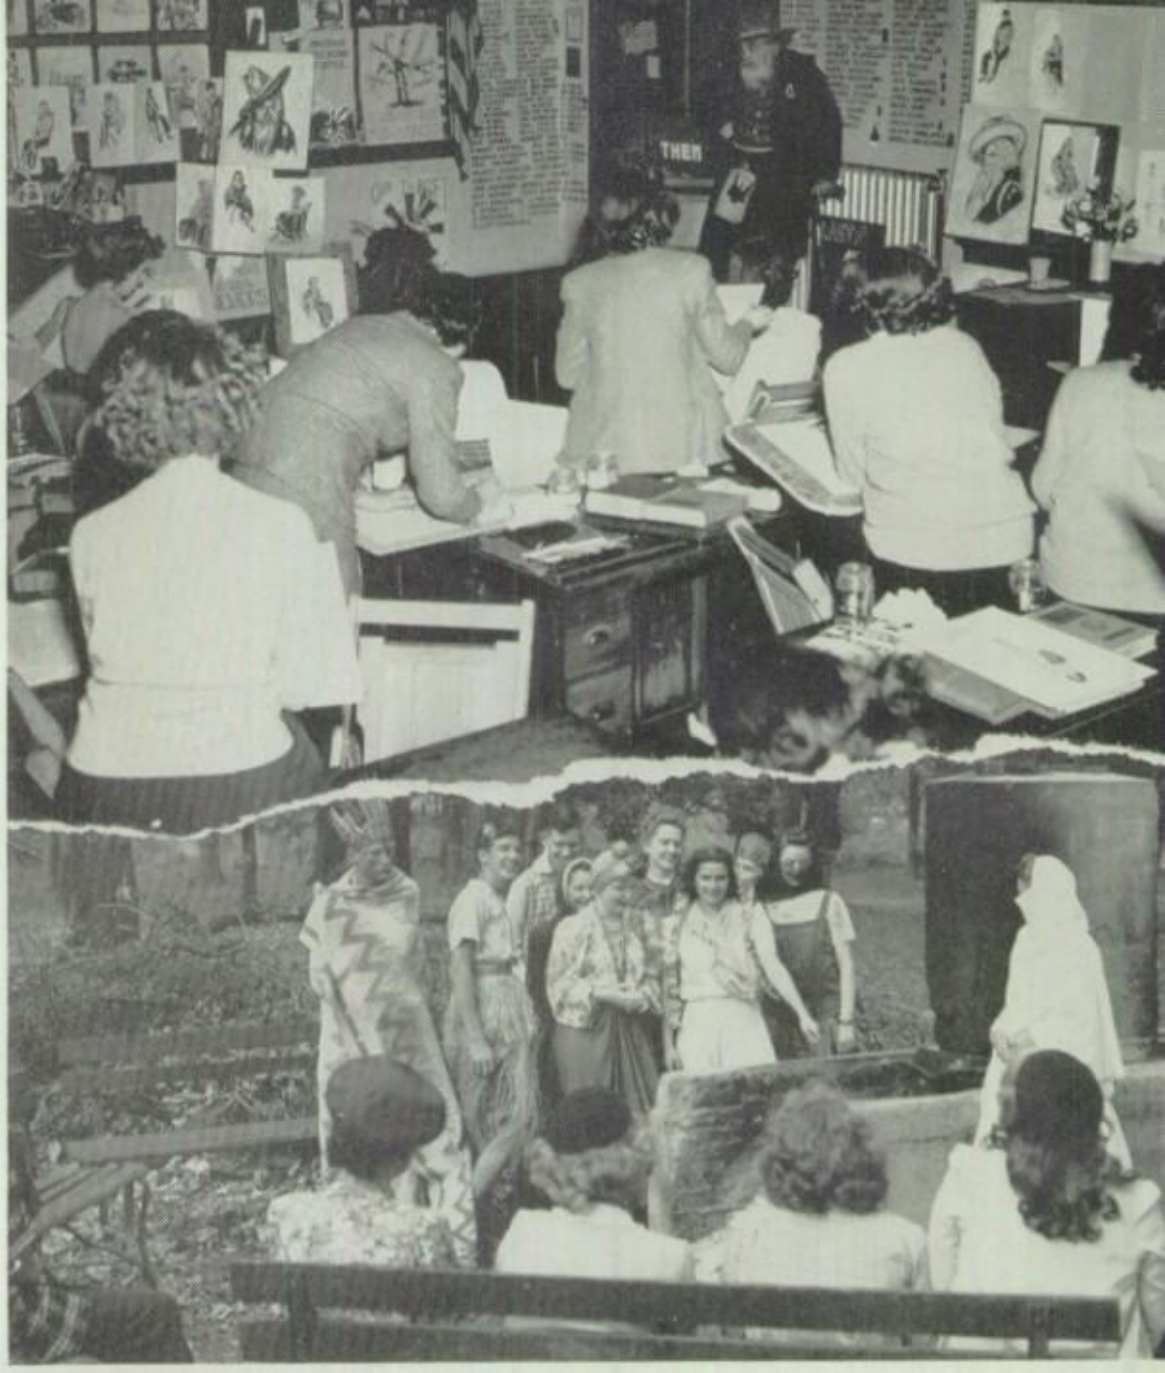
Parties

A professional model from New York poses for the South Side art classes. Here he is dressed as a vagabond before one of Miss Erma Dochterman's classes.



Look silly, don't they? It's the annual Library Club initiation held at Foster Park. This year each initiate represented a different country and dressed in character. It looks like a lot of fun.

Everyone seems to be enjoying himself at the So-Si-Y tea given every year by the members of the club for the faculty. The refreshments were preceded by a devotional service, a candle ceremonial, and group singing.

Another tea. This time it is being given by the members of the choir for their parents and the faculty to display their new formals. Mrs. Lester Hostetler, seated, aided by Mrs. Mossman and Mrs. Waterfield, served tea.

Seniors, America's Citizens Of Tomorrow

By DORIS MUNTZINGER

Today the world is looking forward to a bright and happy tomorrow—a tomorrow that will not see war and bloodshed, but rather peace and prosperity. With these high hopes and a great courage, the class of 1945 goes forth into the world of tomorrow.

The senior class has had a great senior year beginning with the reception, a new and enjoyable activity. The senior banquet appropriately had as its theme "Tomorrow the World." The traditional Ivy Day, Senior Fun Fest, and Senior Dance found their way into the schedule of a busy year.

These were our yesterdays when we marched to the tune of fun and laughter, high spirits and happiness. Today, as we grow older, the scourge of war comes closer when we see the boys in our class marching off to the frightful, horrible tune of cannon, guns, and the drone of bombers. But tomorrow we shall again see the light of day, the boys will come home to the tune of peace and joy, good will, and security. That is the kind of tomorrow to which we seniors are looking forward. We are now going out on our own without the gracious help of teachers and parents. We are going out to make our world, the world of tomorrow, a good world; for we face, tomorrow, the world.

Senior Events

The Junior Prom, "Tahigwa Twilight", for the class of '45, demanded some work out of our industrious class members, as can be seen here. But it was well worth it when they saw that the fruits of their labors brought fun to all that attended. Here is a group putting up some of the colorful Indian theme decorations.

The Ivy Queen of last year's class is crowned by the class president. We all recognize the queen as none other than Weezie McNabb and the president as Kenny Lauer.

Graduation day, 1944. The class members for the last time attended the gym as students of South Side and watched Old Glory rise high above faces that they may never again see. And they looked into the tomorrow then just as many of us who belong to the class of '45 are doing and the many classes after us will be doing.

In keeping with American tradition, "Ring out the old, ring in the new", you juniors will soon be the new, ambitious seniors, eager to enter into your role as leaders in South Side. Yes, this is truly America with the democratic belief in periodic housecleaning so that new leaders, new ideas, and fresh enthusiasm may be frequently ushered in. You are already looking to South Side's future and in so doing are looking to America's future as well.

All through your years here at South Side, your class has been recognized as being particularly outstanding for entering into class activities with such an unusual display of class spirit and enthusiasm. Your junior year shows an even greater strengthening of this characteristic.

One of the biggest attractions of the year was the Junior Banquet, held in the cafeteria, November 17. The clever theme, "Going Our Way", was carried out by speeches reviewing the freshman, sophomore, and junior years and the future promised in the senior year.

The grand finale to your class activities was the Junior Prom, May 4. For those who attended it as their first big dance, it was a most exciting event and will remain one of their fondest memories.

Juniors Are Proud Of--

Fun and gaiety were certainly present at the Junior Banquet, "Going Our Way", as seen by this picture of some of the crowd present. Don Bitsberger, as toastmaster, kept the spirit of the affair lively throughout the evening. There were sparkling speeches covering the past and future years of this class which all lent to the levity of the occasion.

This group is busy decorating for the Sophomore Party held last year. It was one of the most festive occasions of the present Junior class. The theme was the Arabian Nights and the climax of the evening was the selection of a Sultan and his Harem. The gymnasium was decorated as an oriental tent and there were small booths for fortune tellers. Fun was had by all in the mixer activities and dancing. A performance by a Fort Wayne magician, Mr. Sam Stern, also added to the entertainment.

These three Archers have the experience of their parents telling them of their adventures here at South Side. Helen Rohrbaugh has the honor of both parents having attended school here. Her mother, the former Jane Hardendorf, is a 1927 graduate, while her father, Howard Rohrbaugh, is a 1925 graduate. Lavon Fletcher, a 1922 graduate, is the mother of Charles Shirey and is able to tell her son of her experiences at South Side. Robert Gerke's mother, the former Frances Cozik, was a 1925 graduate of South Side.

The sophomore class of 1945 has been well initiated into South Side's activities and participated in their own first major event since entering high school: the Sophomore Party.

The class of 1947 has entered with lots of gusto and spirit into the activities offered by South Side's various departments. Marcelle Koomjohn, Jim Solomon, Sharon Langohr, Marilyn McCrudden, and Joe Christoff distinguished themselves in the speech department. Bud Greiner, Lewie Waters, Tom Selector, Bonnie Marschand, and Jane Rump prove their worth in the way of sports, popular to all.

Considerable service was rendered to the school by such students as Mary Lou Motz, Diane Fletcher, Don Breimeier, and Kathleen Kohr in the publications department. Music enlightens our souls and the sophomores contributed vast accomplished musicianship with Joan Suter and Bill Holzwarth pianists, Bill Waterfield and Stanley Meyers in the band and orchestra, and La Donna Sprunger and Nancy Siebold in the choir.

The sophomores are proud of their achievements, great or small, and are glad they are making the most of what South Side has to offer which makes them PROUD, TOO, THAT THIS IS AMERICA.

These Are Sophomores

Sophomores have taken a major part in every activity at South Side. Here is a group of sophs who have taken an active part on The Times. Left to right, they are Joyce Lakey, advertising manager; Kathleen Kohr, assistant circulation manager; Don Breimeier, circulation manager and assistant business manager; Jackie Wilson, circulation manager, and Virginia Brown, news reporter.

Freshmen Have A Great Future In America

By ANNE WATERFIELD

Oh, for the life of a freshman! Venturing into the unknown realm of higher learning, you admit that you are green and you love it. You stand in awe of the upperclassmen, and are thrilled when one speaks to you. The upperclassmen like it, too, because you take such an eager attitude toward all you do. You really enter into the school spirit in that you take your school work seriously, arrive at basketball games an hour before the doors open, become active in club work. The girls put emphasis on falling in love with the stars of the football and basketball teams and the boys highlight the year by growing up so fast that the girls do not tower over them any longer.

Starting your career in South Side with your best foot forward, you upheld our 100 per cent record in the sales of stamps and bonds. Gloria Eversole has made a particularly outstanding record selling bonds outside her immediate family and ten freshmen sold $1,000 bonds at the Bond Rally.

Here Are The Freshies

Although the freshmen have only one year behind them here at South Side, they have already shown that they are not to be outdone by the upperclassmen. The freshman class has distinguished itself in every field of activity offered here at South Side. The first picture is a snapshot taken of a group of freshman girls on their way home from school.

Here are a few of the freshman boys in a casual snap taken on the incline in the center hall. Reading from left to right, they are, Jim Williams, Bill Griffith, John Carlson, Paul Mischo, and Marshall Warshauer. These boys are not to be outdone, and you may always find them where something big is happening.

One of the bigger activities of the extra-curricular program here at South Side is the speech program. The freshmen have shown that they are good orators, too, and they are willing to match their skill against any other upperclassmen. Reading from left to right are a few of the more outstanding speakers, Bill Waterfield, Beverly Rudig, Marcia Mast, and Sue Brudi.

These four freshman students can say that this was both their mother's and their father's Alma Mater. Joyce Williamson's father is a 1925 graduate and her mother was graduated from here in 1927. Both of Hal Kern's parents were graduated from South Side also, his mother in 1927 and his father in 1926. 1925 and 1927 are then years in which Betty Jane Rohrbaugh's father and mother were graduated from South Side. The mother of Jim Lasch, another second generation student, was graduated from here in 1928 while his father is a 1926 grad.

They Plan Ou

By BARBARA CRISWELL

This is America, and the most American part of it is the vast system of Public Schools where our democratic ideals are instilled in the hearts and minds of our future citizens. South Side is just one small part of this giant generator of democracy but a most significant part. A flaw in this one part might disturb the operation of the entire machine. The responsibility for keeping this vital part in perfect adjustment lies with Superintendent Merle J. Abbett. To Mr. Abbett goes the thanks for formulating and administering educational policies which shape our future. Under his supervision the youth of tomorrow will be educated for trained and dependable leadership.

The task of maintaining the efficiency of this integral part is not only vested in the superintendent, but rests with the Fort Wayne Board of Education as well. The members of this organization adopt plans for adjustment that will improve the smooth working condition of this mechanical part. The lubricating oil which this board applies, proficiency, is responsible for the marked advancement of the Fort Wayne Public Schools. These men and women deserve a hearty vote of thanks for their resourceful direction of an American institution in the American way.

American Future

A young British flight commander on his initial visit to the United States, when asked what was the most amazing thing that he had found in America, replied without hesitation, "The Americans!" Yes, it is the ingenuity and aggressiveness of the forceful American personality that impresses everyone, and no one is more typically American than our own principal, Mr. Snider. His sparkling enthusiasm and broad sense of humor have that distinctive American flavor. This, blended with an enterprising vigour, makes him a truly fitting leader of young people. We are extremely fortunate to have a leader of such magnetic personality to fire us with some of the limitless fuel of his ambition and vitality.

This is America and business efficiency which is a keynote of America is to be found in the office of this high school. A school involving a personel as large as that of South Side has to deal with big business in the management of all the innumerable details that present themselves. To cope with these strenuous duties, South Side has two very capable office girls, Ilo Hirschman (left) and Garneta Beaty, who are outstanding graduates of South Side and of the commercial department. Through their industrious efforts the business of our school is managed efficiently to the smallest detail, despite the added strain in the accounting of huge bond sales.

Miss Martha Pittenger, Dean of Girls

Contributing to the emotional stability of a student is just as important, if not more so, as developing his mental balance. This delicate task is entrusted to your reliable dean, Miss Martha Pittenger. It takes a great sense of humor, a sympathetic understanding of young people, and an inexhaustible store of patience to be a dean, and Miss Pittenger certainly has all of these. South Side's own Miss Anthony is an everwilling confident and counselor to the numerous emotional upsets that confront the average high school student. She takes a personal interest in each and every one of them, and deserves the title of Keeper of the Hearts, the young pulse of America.

Paul Sidell, Guidance Director

This is America, and guidance to American youth to equip them for the tasks of citizenship is one of its chief responsibilities. In our school, this important function is performed by Mr. Paul Sidell, your Guidance Director. He is anxious to see that each student has chosen the proper training program to equip him for the career objective he has in mind. He helps you get a firm footing on the threshold of a useful life. His good-natured disposition and beaming smile instantly win your trust and confidence. He is a delightful personality and an excellent adviser.

This is America at South Side, and the Parent-Teachers Association is an integral part of our democratic plan. It is an excellent example of the American cooperative spirit, for in this organization parents and teachers work together to reach a better understanding of the students and their problems. This body is the valuable link that joins home and school.

Back-to-School Night is one of the most important occasions of the year to follow out the PTA plan of acquainting parents with teachers and vice versa. At this time the parents meet the teachers and learn of the work their children are doing under their supervision. This picture shows a group of parents who are interested in a display in Mr. Gould's room.

Outstanding this year in PTA activities have been the class teas. They have been influential in acquainting the parents of students in one class with each other. In this picture of the Senior Tea, Mrs. Criswell is seen serving Mrs. Leversee and Mrs. Waters.

THE FACULTY TEA

Fun and relaxation for all at the Christmas Tea for members of the faculty. The tea was held in Room 102, which was festive with gay Christmas decorations, typical of the season. Over their teacups, Louie Hull, C. A. Bex, Ralph McClain, and R. Nelson Snider discuss a puzzling situation.

Here in America, it is people like those shown on this page that assure us of final victory. In the first row, left, R. Nelson Snider shakes hands with South Side's own hero, Bud Mahurin. Major Mahurin returned to this country after shooting down twenty-one enemy planes and after being shot down over France, where he escaped by means of the underground. At the right is Miss Olive Perkins, who has been decorated with a silver pin and blue ribbon for meritorious achievement as donor of six pints of blood. By these patriotic gestures, perhaps Miss Perkins has saved six lives by donating her blood to the American Red Cross.

In the second row, South Side's own Miss Pearl Rehorst enlisted as a nurses aid, after hearing the country's appeal for them. At the right is S 2/c Dick Paul, a January graduate of South Side. He returned to pay his old Alma Mater a visit after completing his boot training at Great Lakes.

In the bottom row, at the left, Mr. Carl Vonderau, custodian, is putting up name-plates on the servicemen's shrine. The servicemen's shrine, located in the upper front hall, was made to honor ex-South Siders now serving their country in the armed forces. At right, soldiers stand at attention around the memorial to South Side graduates who have lost their life in this war. Tribute was paid to them during the Armistice Day Assembly, November 10.

This year there ar... books expertly written ... most popular are "A ... Brooklyn", "Rimona", ... Julia", "Good Night, ... Anna and the King ... Green Dolphin Street."

A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" is the story of Francie Nolan and the world of Williamsburg, Brooklyn. It is a story of tears, laughter, cruelty, and compassion and is so crowded with life and people and incidents that no description can begin to convey its spirit. "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" will be remembered because within the compass of its characters is all humanity—the good, the bad, the pitiful, the ridiculous, and the star-gazing.

More Than A Biography

Gene Fowler's "Good Night, Sweet Prince" is more than a biography of John Barrymore, it is a tribute to his memory by a devoted friend. Mr. Fowler does not try to minimize the actor's weaknesses, but does attempt to remove the grisly stain of unsavory publicity that besmirched his name. It is also a story of the theatrical world, with many witty anecdotes contributed by celebrated personages.

"Anna and the King of Siam", by Margaret Landon, is a book that is very interesting and factual. In all history there have been few women who have played so important a role in a nation's history as did courageous Anna Leonowens who invaded the King of Siam's court in 1862 to future her crowded haven and multitudinous offspring.

Boys Of Nation Favor Compulsory Training

Though approximately fifty per cent of the boys of South Side voted in the affirmative in a recent poll on the question of compulsory military training, the national results showed that boys all over the nation voted 58.5 in the affirmative. Among the 52,965 high school boys polled, only 30.5 per cent registered a negative vote. The rest were undecided.

Pupils who took part in the poll, conducted by the National Institute of Student Opinion, had various opinions. Some of them, both pro and con, were: Large armies are in violation to future wars; compulsory military training will benefit the trainee's health, character development, and will maintain and improve his discipline, and it will also help us prepare for future wars if they come.

Even though most boys favored post war military training, the 60,555 girls polled were heartily against it, both in South Side and in the whole nation.

Freedom Of The Press An American Privilege

The South Side Times won highest honors again this year, despite the handicaps under which the staff and printers have had to work. The Times won International Honor Rating from the Quill and Scroll, the Medalist Award from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, and the All-American Award from the National Scholastic Press Association. Quill and Scroll also gave the George Gallup Award and Columbia Press Association, the Victory Star in recognition of the Times' cooperation with the war effort.

The Times started out last fall under the able direction of general manager Billie Jean Miller, who served the entire fall semester. Other major staff positions were filled by Doris Muntzinger, managing editor; Charlotte Koomjohn, news editor; Barbara Criswell, editorial page editor; Jean Haines, feature editor; Don Bitsberger, sports editor; Gilbert Rehm, make-up editor; Ruth Lowry, war editor; Phyllis Sweeney, business manager; Donna Brouwer, advertising manager; Don Breimeier, circulation manager; Dean Rhoads, photographer, and Margery Miller, student adviser.

In January, at the start of the spring semester, there were several changes in the major staff. Lois Breimeier took over as general manager, Dave Sauer as make-up editor, Donna Brouwer as business manager, Martha Flint as editorial page editor, Ruth Lowry and Charlotte Koomjohn as copy editors, Wayne Compton and Dick Brehm as headline editors, and Anita Link and Jackie Wilson served as circulation managers.

Charlotte Koomjohn succeeded Lois as general manager of The Times, and served during the month of April. Wayne Compton finished the spring semester as general manager, by filling the position during the month of May.

We Are Thankful For

Again this year, South Side has proved that it is outstanding in the field of speech. All four classes contributed to the exceptional work.

Among the freshmen four boys stood out. Jim Williams won the freshman oratorical declamation contest. Ray Epperson and Marshal Warshauer tied for first place in the discussion contest sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. In the annual Freshman-Sophomore speech contest, Richard Gensheimer took first place honors.

Although there are many excellent speakers in the sophomore class, only a few can be mentioned here. Marilyn McCrudden won first place in the sophomore division of the Freshman-Sophomore contest, and, later in the year, went to state in dramatic declamation. Among the boys, Jim Solomon won first place in the sophomore division of oratorical declamation. Sharon Langohr walked away with first place honors in the Chamber of Commerce discussion contest.

The juniors were outstanding in oratorical declamation. Dick Dannecker and Jacky Sterner represented South Side at state in this event. Mary Lou Singer was a finalist in the junior division of oratorical declamation. Leona Wood placed Willis Disler was also outstanding in oratorical dec. Don Bitsberger won first in the Wrangler Extemp contest and then went to the state contest at DePauw. He was also winner of the junior discussion contest sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

There were many good senior speakers. Alvin Haley was active in discussion. Dean Rhoads won first in Wranglers radio broadcasting contest and then went to state in that event. Al Moellering represented South Side at state in humorous declamation. Charlotte Koomjohn was active in oratorical declamation. Ed Bransilver, as in previous years, took many honors. He went to state in the extemp contest and also took first place in the Rotary discussion contest. Bob Pugh, South Side's humorous declamation champ, represented South Side in that field. Phil Traycoff proved himself most outstanding in original oratory. In the American Legion oratory contest he went to the state finals. He also went to state in radio broadcasting contest.

Won 8, Lost 1

Yes, Our Champions

Rolling up one of the most impressive records in South Side's grid annals, this year's pigskin squad, again under the tutelage of George Collyer, finished the season with eight wins against a lone loss to North Side. Included in their record was an undisputed City Crown, South's first in seven years. On paper and on the gridiron, the Archers were among the better ball clubs of the whole state. The Green's offensive total was a terrific 191 points compared to their opponents' total of 51.

One of the good points about this year's team was the fact that it was not built around any eleven players nor was any individual player to be classed as a "star." With capable reserves, Coach Collyer was able to substitute quite freely, and, considering the number of underclassmen on the squad, to start building for a probably better season in 1945.

The brunt of the Archer attack was carried by such stellar performers as Dick

Beery, flashy halfback; Dick Ellenwood, his brilliant running mate; Dick Papai, high scorer of the squad with 36 points; diminutive Keith Miller, smallest man of the first two teams; and Bob McClain, deceptive runner and able passer.

This attacking power would have gone for naught had there not been the reliable and sturdy quarterbacking of Willis Disler and Herbie Gernand.

But the backs are not the only ones to deserve credit; line play was of a most superior caliber this year. It was the fellows on the line who opened holes for the backs to go through; it was the fellows on the line who nipped many an opponents' offensive work in the bud. Paul Snyder, Bill Hoover, Tommy Selecter, and Don Schoenherr. Their names will go down alongside those of other great ends of the past. Danny Ferber, Big Dick Paul, and Dick McMahon. Who could forget their outstanding work in the tackle slots? Karl Wuttke, Gene Holtrey. Many claimed them to be among the best guards in this territory. Ray Rolf and Joe Fields. These two mighty fine centers were the fellows relied upon to hold up the center of our forward wall.

Among these fellows——the makings of one of the best grid teams of many years. South Side's own City Champions of 1944.

Archers On The Hardwood

Ending their season with twelve won and eight lost, Coach Wayne Scott's netmen had a rather successful year which was nearly culminated in a Sectional crown.

The graduating netters are Senseny, Hemrick, Joyce, Murray, Weisman, and Altevogt. "Seep" was our big center who contributed rebounding and stellar all-round play to the Archer cause. "Stumpy" Hemrick was a smooth, conservative guard who had good defensive rebounding, good ball handling, and accurate long shots. "Quack" Joyce was a great rebounding man, and did well in jamming up a team's offense by his defensive work. Jack Murray, the team's high scorer with 121 points, was fast, tricky, and alert. Lanky Dick Weisman put in scoring spark in a few instances and did well as our reserve pivot-man. Ron Altevogt was the fastest man on the squad and proved to be a thorn in the side of any team he played against.

Kelly Thinlies On Track

Although the season was not completed at the time of this story, once again it appears that Coach George Collyer has produced one of the state's better track aggregations. Last year the Archers were fifth in the State Finals, and this year's squad seemed capable of doing equally well.

The South thinlies started their season against an experienced Elkhart squad and lost, 58 to 51. The next meet was with Mishawaka, and the Archers annexed the dual, 69½ to 39½. Central and Goshen then fell before the fast developing Archers by scores of 81 to 27 and 63 to 45.

Dick Beery, in the role of shot-putter and low-hurdler, was one of Archer's star performers as he was in the two other major sports. Paul Snyder developed into one of the state's best distance men, while Jim Hess in the broad jump and Mort Williams in the dashes also starred. The Green 880 relay squad was one of the best quartets in the state.

South Side's varied and interesting intramural program is one of your school's outstanding features. Under the capable guidance of Mr. Louis Briner, the program presents a list of sports and activities that are sure to draw the interest of every boy.

One of the greatest problems in any intramural program is that of the different sizes and abilities of the participants. Mr. Briner has overcome this problem with a system of his own. Boys who weigh under 110 pounds are

They Learn How

Under pressure of another wartime school year, South Side continued its physical fitness program for upperclass boys during the past semesters. The program was carried on as it was in two previous years for the first semester, but in January the boys physical fitness was combined with the regular physical education classes.

In the fall, the boys continued to run the obstacle course, but tag football made up the greater part of the early semester program. When weather was bad for outdoor work, the classes resorted to Room 114 for their workouts in calisthenics.

In January, however, the classes were carried on under the usual procedure of physical education. Volleyball was one of the first activities, and this was followed by handball. The annual carnival of self-testing activities then comprised a large part of the spring program. Softball on the outdoor diamonds then completed the year's activities.

Of course, this program was once again under the direction of South Side's two capable physical education instructors, Mr. Louis Briner and Mr. Wayne Scott.

In its third year the program was accepted readily by the boys, and considerable enjoyment was obtained from their participation in competitive gym class activities. The program has proved its worth by preparing many Archer graduates for either military service or extensive physical education work in college. It is, however, just another part of South Side's war effort to make a better—Your America!

Below are shown some snaps of the "Commandos" in various phases of their physical education program. In the top left picture, the boys are lined up in squad formation. The top right picture shows the group in Room 114 in a class of calisthenics. The lower set of pictures shows the boys in a tug-of-war contest in Room 114 and another group on the obstacle course in the stadium.

Keeping

Girls' gym classes under the supervision of Mrs. Alice Keegan and Miss Helen Pohlmeyer had speedball, basketball, volley ball, tumbling, small group games, exercises, softball, and track during the school year. Freshmen were required to take gym, while the sophomore, junior, and senior girls had their choice of either swimming, dance class, or gym. In some cases, the junior and senior girls had physical fitness classes.

The dance classes started with modern exercises and dance, then modern ballet and folk dancing. After that came classical bar work, ballet, and square dancing. All dances were done to music. After some training, the dancers made out and performed their own dance routines.

The sports activities were held in the gymnasium, and when the weather in the fall and spring permitted, the girls enjoyed their sports outside either in the stadium or the field south of the school. The dance class held their session in the handball court; and the exercise class, in Room 170.

Only junior and senior girls were admitted to the exercise groups in Room 170. The exercises seemed to be more fun when done rhymically to music. All exercises were chosen especially for stretching and conditioning the muscles rather than for hardening them.

All the classes had some form of participating in the annual physical education spring show.

A great aid to Mrs. Keegan and Miss Pohlmeyer were the student leaders and office girls. The student leaders helped in explaining the rules and regulations of the sports, and the office girls were of great assistance in refereeing the games and taking attendance, since the gym classes usually consist of eighty to ninety members.

South Side's best-known teachers among the girls, our instructors and friends: Mrs. Alice Keegan and Miss Helen Pohlmeyer.

Girls' Athletic Association

Mrs. Alice Keegan and Miss Helen Pohlmeyer, girls' physical education instructors, planned a varied schedule for the members of the Girls Athletic Association. Freshmen who were interested in GAA met on Fridays after school in the gym with Miss Pohlmeyer as instructor. During the school year they played speedball, basketball, volley ball, participated in tumbling, baseball, and track. The upperclass members of GAA under the guidance of Mrs. Keegan participated in speedball (in place of the usual hockey), basketball, volley ball, tumbling, baseball, track, ping pong, and badminton.

The regular tennis tournament was not held this year, since not enough members signed up. Ping pong and badminton proved to be very successful this year with many girls taking part.

The GAA parties and get-to-gethers provided lots of enjoyment right along with the other activities. The GAA'ers, 147 in all, really put on a bewitching Halloween party in Room 170, October 20. A grand march started the program, and prizes were given for the most clever costumes. After the fun came the refreshments.

GAA held its recognition service on January 12 in the Greeley Room. There, the girls who had earned 300 points received numerals, and those who

The Executive Board of the Girls Athletic Association consisted of seven members: Kathryn Vonderau, president; Wanda Hover, vice-president and sports editor; Doris Kohr, secretary; Lis Mossman, treasurer; Kathryn Crabill, sports manager; Phyllis Miller, freshman representative; and Phyllis Stroup, pianist.

The Spring Show

"Northern Nights", presentation of the Girls' Physical Education Department, was a real success. More than 1500 spectators watched 500 girls perform to the music of the northern countries.

The different numbers, the exercise groups, the games, the ballet movements, the tumbling, the toe dances, the dolly dance, the gypsy dance, the baseball game, the Rye Waltz, the Varsovienne, the Danish, Norwegian, and Swedish dances, Swiss tap dance, and the Skaters' Waltz, were all included in the program.

The music in the show was very ably presented by Phyllis Stroup, Ruth Lowry, Jane Ketchem, Roberta Calvert, Kathleen Barrow, Lois Allmandinger, and Paul Koehler at the drums.

Outstanding members of the show, besides the participating members of the gym and dance classes, were the tumblers: Jean Croell, Betty Crumrine, Marcelyn Dafforn, Virginia Becker, Margaret Martin, Ida Sanders, Nancy Siebold, Joan Selby, Shirley Dyer, Jean Kuntz, Phyllis Martz, Betty Berkes, Maureen Calder, Jeanne Brunskill, Joan Kensill, Kathryn Smith, Doris Williams, and Wanda Hover. Doris and Wanda especially displayed their fine skill in many difficult stunts. The members of the Tap Dance Club included Bonnie Lou Mitchell (who made up the routines for the cast), Betty Stari, Kathryn Hanke, Jean Degler, Pat Siples, Dorla Bohner, Gwen Shady, Pat Van Buskirk, Beverly Wooding, Thelma Epstein, Phyllis Jones, Carol Lambert, and Doris Williams. Three girls who displayed such fine skill in the toe ballet were Betty Koerber, Thelma Epstein, and Beverly Wooding.
